RESEARCH TRAINING AND SKILLS

Research Training

Introduction to Structural Equation Modeling

May 2022

Introduction to Structural Equation Modeling is a three-day workshop focused on the application and interpretation of statistical models that are designed for the analysis of multivariate data with latent variables. Hosted by CenterStat.

Using APIs for Population Research

April 2022

Data producers are increasingly providing API (Application Programming Interface) access to their data products. In this workshop, you'll learn what APIs are and the benefits of using APIs for data access. Presenters from the US Census Bureau and IPUMS will explain the capabilities of their APIs and how you can get started. PRI Spring 2022 methodology workshop, Penn State.

Missing Data

February 2019

This course covers the theory and practice of both maximum likelihood and multiple imputation using Stata and R. Taught by Paul Allison of Statistical Horizons, San Diego, California.

Sequence Analysis Using TraMineR

July 2017

This workshop introduces TraMineR, a program which uses R for mining, describing and visualizing sequences of states or events. Sponsored by the Center for Family and Demographic Research, Bowling Green, Ohio.

Mini-Medical School for Social Scientists

July 2011

Interdisciplinary conference aimed at promoting cross-disciplinary collaboration and exposure to research across medical, social science, and biological approaches to health and health disparities. Sponsored by RAND, Santa Monica, California.

Demography, Epidemiology, and Economics of Aging

July 2011

Interdisciplinary conference aimed at providing exposure to biological, social science, and medical advancements in aging research relating to health and health disparities. Sponsored by RAND, Santa Monica, California.

Integrating Biomarkers into Population-based Research

June 2008

Introduction to collection, storage, and analysis of biomarkers for social science research. Co-sponsored by the Interuniversity Consortium for Political and Social Research (ICPSR) and the Carolina Population Center.

Short Course in Biodemography

Short course described recent findings in social science research using biomarkers as outcomes or independent variables. Co-sponsored by the NICHD, the Institute for Behavioral Science at the University of Colorado at Boulder, and the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Research Skills

Quantitative research methods: group-based developmental trajectories, growth curve modeling, event history (survival) analysis, multilevel (HLM) models, single equation regression, multinomial treatment models, multiple imputation.

RESEARCH TRAINING AND SKILLS, continued.

Data: National Longitudinal Study of Adolescent to Adult Health (Add Health), National Longitudinal Study of Youth – 1979 and 1997 (NLSY79, NLSY97, CNLSY), National Social Life, Health, and Aging Project (NSHAP), UNOS (United Network for Organ Sharing).

TEACHING EXPERIENCE & TRAINING.

Undergraduate

Introduction to The Research Process and Evidence Base, Writing Intensive (online, face-to-face, blended/hybrid)

Introduction to Medical Sociology/Sociology of Health and Illness

Introduction to Sociology

Methods of Social Research I (Undergraduate research methods)

Methods of Social Research II (Undergraduate statistics)

Sociology of Family

Graduate

Quantitative Methods in Sociology

Families, Work, and Inequality

Families and Inequality

Race, Gender, & Health Inequalities

Training

Online Teaching Certification Seminar. 2020. Online teaching certification from University of Missouri.

Remote: The Connected Faculty Summit. 2020. Online teaching training from Arizona State University.

Writing Intensive Workshop, August 2018. Campus Writing Program, University of Missouri. Columbia, MO.

Integrating American Community Survey Topics into Undergraduate Courses, June 2015. University of Michigan Institute for Social Research. Ann Arbor, MI.

Quality Matters training for online teaching, March 2013.

ASA Section on Teaching & Learning Pre-conference on Teaching and Learning, August 2012. San Francisco, CA.

Preparing Future Faculty, Denison University & The Ohio State University, 2008.
